Attendance and Participation 30%
Production Attendance and Reviews 20%
Quizzes and Assignments 20%
Final Performance 30%

Attendance and Promptness

Attendance to this class is compulsory because the study of theatre is participatory. There is no way to 'make up' your in-class work. Additionally, when we work on projects your partner(s) rely on your presence in order to participate in class. Therefore, a percentage of your grade is evaluated upon your attendance and participation in class. After two unexcused absences, your grade will be lowered by one increment off the final mark and each subsequent absence will lower it by one increment.

Arriving late adversely affects your own learning and disrupts the learning process of your fellow students. Therefore, tardiness in excess of 10 minutes will be considered a complete absence, and every three instances of tardiness—of whatever duration—will equate to one absence. I also reserve the right to declare a "no lateness" policy, should the need arise. Briefly put, this means that if the door to the class is shut and you are not inside by the time class begins, you are absent. No exceptions. If you have excessive absences or lateness please speak to me.

Participation

You will be asked to participate in daily discussions and earn grades in the areas of process and product. In addition to the class attendance policy stated earlier, for each class you will receive a grade for the day on a scale from zero to five.

5 The student was actively participating in class, obviously well prepared, and positively engaged with the material and fellow classmates.

4 The student was present, somewhat prepared, but not fully engaged

3-0 The student was unprepared, disruptive, disrespectful or absent

A solid work ethic is expected in this class so high marks should be the norm. Poor work will stand out. Students receiving low marks for participation should meet with the instructor to discuss the problem and how it will be resolved.

Performance Evaluation

The final examination for this course is a live performance of a scene chosen by you and your partners presented to the rest of the class. Particulars of the method of evaluation will be clearly explained in a subsequent handout detailing the project.

Cell Phones

Please turn off your cell phone in class. My phone will be set to vibrate in case an emergency text message should be sent by the University. If your phone rings during class, please silence it as quickly as possible. Anyone caught texting in class will be immediately dismissed from class, resulting in an absence for the day.

Procedure/Policy

You are expected to abide by the following regulations.

- Your class meets in a working theatre – please do not touch any props or set piece without the explicit instruction of your professor.
- Eating, drinking, or gum chewing during the class are not permitted. Please let me know in writing if you have a medical exception to this policy. Water in a capped container is acceptable and advised.

- Absolutely no weapons, real or fake, are allowed in the classroom. In certain circumstances scene work will require prop weapons. In these cases I will check the items out to you and they must be under my supervision at all times.
 - There is inherent risk involved in many theatre classes, as they are very physical in nature. Please proceed through class with caution. Always be mindful of your personal safety and the safety of others.
- Due to safety considerations, at no point during a student's time spent in class should non-enrolled persons be guests of that student without my consent.

Special Needs

If you have documented special needs that require special accommodation, you must contact your professor and Ms. Ligia Arango of the Learning Success Center to identify yourself within the first two weeks of class so that special arrangements can be made. The Learning Success Center can be found on the first floor of the library, room 203A.

Plagiarism and other Student Conduct Policies

Please refer to the Student Handbook for campus policies concerning plagiarism and student conduct policies. Included in these policies are the procedures an instructor must follow for due process if enforcing the policies. Any question concerning these policies should be directed to the Dean of Students, Ms. Kim Watson (265-4113).
