

Deathtrap Opens This Weekend

The Montana Actor's Theatre has hit another home run with their latest show entitled Deathtrap by Ira Levin. The plot is simple but effective. Sidney Bruhl is a once-successful playwright whose last several productions have flopped at the box office. He then receives a script by a novice writer named Clifford Anderson for a stage thriller entitled Deathtrap. Bruhl tells his wife Myra that the script is brilliant and he then concocts a murder plot whereby he will offer to help Anderson rewrite the script, but will instead kill him and pass the play off as his own. Needless to say, the plan quickly spirals out of control.

The show will be in the MSUN Theater for the next three weekends: November 12, 13, 14, 19, 20, 21, 27 & 28. Doors and bar open at 7:30 p.m. shows start at 8:00 p.m. Tickets are $10/adults and $8/seniors or students, MSUN students are free with current student ID. Credit cards are now accepted. Some language and adult content.

Energy Saving Tip #12

Make sure that you are removed from any junk mailing lists that will send you catalogues you will never look at; every year nearly 62 million trees and 28 billion gallons of water are wasted to produce these catalogues that we simply throw away.

Throwing Toasters - "One Man Comedy Rock Band"

Comedy rock band, Throwing Toasters, combines the hilarious songwriting of Tenacious D with the onstage energy of Barenaked Ladies. The only difference is that all their songs are clean and there is only one band member, Grant Baciocco. The rest of the members seem to be figments of Grant's imagination. This does not seem to deter this one man Comedy Rock show from being a side splittingly funny and super high energy affair.

The show will be November 17 at 7:00 p.m. in the Student Union Building Ballroom. Tickets are available at the door for $5/Adults and $3/Students and FREE to MSUN students, faculty & staff.

Outlook Tip: Customize Outlook's Contact display

By Marianne Hoppe

Contacts are entries for people you communicate with using Outlook. When you create a contact, you can store more than just an email address. For instance, you can store company names, addresses and phone numbers.

By default, Outlook sorts contacts by first names and then last names, which isn't always efficient. For instance, you might remember a contact only by their company name. In a list sorted by first names, how would you find a person when you can't remember a first or last name?

Fortunately, there are a number of ways you can view all that contact information. Open your contact folder, click "View" on tool bar and then move to "Current View". You'll see a list of different ways to view your contacts. For our example where we can't remember a person's name only their company, we'd select "By Company".

After you've selected the view you like for your contacts, if your needs are a bit more complex you can then use the "Customize Current View" option on the Current View list. In the "Customize View" dialog box you can click "Fields" to add or delete the information that Outlook displays. And to change the way Outlook arranges contacts, click "Sort".

There are so many possibilities, that it might take a bit of experimenting to get the right mix for you, but it's worth it!

Tidbits

By: Bill Lanier

You may know that the MSU-Northern Gymnasium was designed by architect Oswald Berg of Bozeman, but did you know that Oswald was also one of the designers of the Brick Breeden Fieldhouse on the MSU Bozeman campus. At the time the Brick Breeden Fieldhouse was built it was "the largest wooden arched roof structure in existence". Oswald Berg was also the architect for Morgan Hall and the Student Family Housing apartments on the Northern campus.
